

ROBIN LISOWSKI

Slipstream Group Inc.

Robin Lisowski is director of service solutions, where she leads Slipstream's planning efforts related to emerging services, including beneficial electrification. Robin has worked with energy utilities for 15 years and in the energy efficiency industry since 2008. She has a passion for interdisciplinary approaches to energy management and sustainability and Slipstream's leadership role in this space. Robin has a bachelors' degree in political science and Spanish from Augsburg College (Minneapolis, now Augsburg University) and a master's in public policy and administration from the La Follette School of Public Affairs at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.